COMMUNICATED. RELIGIOUS.-The discourse of Dr. Reese in the M. P. Church, on Sunday morning, was one of unusual interest and pathos, the wrapt attention of the auditory well attesting the ability of the preacher to instruct and intensify a congregation. Discoursing mainly in reference to the Divinity of Christ, he very lucidly, and by the exercise of "inexorable logic," demonstrated that the God of the old testament was the Christ of the new, "upholding all things by the word of his power." The special object of the sermon was to disabuse the minds of the rising generation of those heretical notions likely to be induced by the latent and subtle inidelity pervading many periodicals in "these last days," and which, with Emerson, Parker, and others, would have it believed that the express image of" the Father, was not of miraculeus origin but merely one who, because of his ethical teaching, merited to necessary to a choice 152. rank with Plato, Zeno, and others of their school. His illustrations of "the express by a reference to persons, leaves and stars, which, though alike in their class, was unusually affecting, while the assur-·fie lives, he lives who once was dead,

The preacher is certainly a divine of rare clerical ability, and one whose ministrations are well calculated to arrent the perverse proclivities of "weary weaderers after rest.'

COMMUNICATED. A communication in the Gazette of Fridev, over the signature of "Bell," proposes to the friends of our party, the speedy organization of a Bell and Everett Club .--This proposition should meet with a hearty response from every friend of our cause. Est in addition to this, I would propose the organization of a Club for each Ward, as cuxiliaries to the Central Union Club of Alexandria. Let us go into this campaign with a thorough organization! Let us bear our banner aloft to the breeze, with the ineription of Bell and Everett upon its folds, together with those great and glorious principles, of which they have been the constent and faithful exponents throughout their long and honored lives-The Union and the lorstitution, and the enforcement of the Laws! Principles established by the founders of the Republic. Principles, which were considered good enough, broad enough, and sound enough for our fathers to stand upon, ere the era of platforms was inaugurated by designing politicians. Principles, around which the conservative elements of the country will gain rally. Let all who love their country, and earnestly wish its speedy restoration to neace and quietude, exhibit their devotion to it, and their solicitude for its welfare, by enlisting under the banner of the Union party, which seeks the enforcement of the laws, and recognizes the equality of the

OBITUARY. The death of ELIJAH L. ALSOP, eldest son of Dr. William S. and Lavinia Alsop, occurred at Slate Mills, Rappahannock county, Va., on Wednesday, the 20th of June, 1860, in the 13th year of his age. One week previous to his death, he was at school, apparently well. On Friday preceding his demise he was attacked with dysentery, but it was not until Monday that he was thought to be dangerously ill. His disease then assumed a virulent and malignant phase, that balled all medical prescription. The skill of his father, who justly stands high in his profession, and that of three other physicians, who were called in, failed to arrest or stay the tyrant hand of death. On Wednesday he peacefully and calmly breathed his last, and has gone beyond that "bourne whence no traveller returns," He was of a gentle and an rminble disposition, ever exhibiting fine moral deportment, modest, unassuming, kind, and respectful. He exhibited a rare and an uncommon fond loss for books, for one so young, particularly treatises on history, and biography. In the Sunday School he had obtained considerable knowledge of the bible, and whatever he read or studied he recollected, and comprehended with a clearness and jucidness that are rarely manifested in one of his age. He had, for his opportunity. made a fine progress in his studies at school.hald it have been the will of the Almighty for him to have lived and filled his sphere as a man, he doubtless would have been an honor to any profession he might have pursued. While just in the bloom and morning of life, 'ere time had haid its cithering hand upon him, death severed the silien cord which bound his soul to its final tenement, and robbed a father and mother of one who cas the object of love and solicitude. May his bereaved parents submit to their loss with christian resignation and submission, recollecting that that who said "suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven, will take care of his immortal spirit. May their loss redound to their eternal good. Let those who were objects of his love prepare to meet him in heaven. [The Fredericksburg papers will please copy.]

accounts of the large and brilliant meteor which on Friday evening last at about a quarter of ten o'clock sped across the northern quarter of the Heavens from northwest towards the northeast, mentioned in vesterday's Gazette. After passing at a rate far less rapid than is usual with meteors, from its place of beginning in the northwest towards the eastern herizon, about half of the whole distance traversed, and at an elevation of about twelve degrees, it became divided into two parts, the color changing from an intense bluish white to reddish, one part of the meteor spreading out with a long tail. So persistent was the meteor and so great a part of any one. light did it shed that it caused the ery of fire in the vicinity of our office. The National Intelligencer says there is an interest connected with the appearance of this meteor of a scientific character, and which may have the effect of lifting it from the comparatively unimportant station of being merely one of a mass of fortuitous though brilliant appearances into something like a phenomenon, that, if not absolutely predictable, may be considered as at least expectable. It refers to the fact that a strikingly similar phenomenon presented itself precisely one year (365 days) previous, true even almost, if not quite to the minute.

AN INDUSTRIBUS CENSUS TAKER .- Mr. J. . Barber, Assistant Marshal in Lawrence Co., Ohio, thus sums up his week's labor in a note to the United States Marshal:-"I commenced on Monday at 12 o'clock, after walking ten miles from home, visited every house in Lawrence township, filled thirty pages of schedule No. 1, four of No. 4, and took all the other statistics. He walked over 100 miles through bush, briers, wheat and corn fields, and named two babies-called one James Buchanan and the other Lewis Sifford. Finished the township by Saturday noon, and walked home a distance of fifteen miles by sunset. And all this time the mercury was 90 deg. Fahrenheit." We call that a week's work which few men have equalled After this we have no aspiration to become a census taker .- Cin. Com.

WARRENTON SPRINGS .- We hear on all hands, that the "season" at the Fauquier White Sulphur Springs has opened delightfully, and promises to be the pleasantest season ever passed at that famous watering place.
